Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Over the Garden Wall: A Musical Burlesque in One Act Scene. - The garden wall. Branches of willow or evergreen at sides and back of wall. At rise of curtain the prelude to the song Over the Garden Wall is played by the pianist. Reginald De Jones appears back of wall in centre. Reginald. Ladies, gentlemen and all fellow-citizens assembled before me to-night, - I take great pleasure in introducing to your notice the greatest travelling aggregation of the day. It has taken years of labor to form this gigantic company of Stars, and there has never been seen such an array of beauty, grace and talent combined as you will find in this company. It is very seldom that we ever play in a town of this size, but last week when we were playing in Blueberry Corners, or name of some village near by) we located this town on the map and decided to make it our next stand, provided we could get a sufficient guarantee from the management of this house. We are the only company on the road travelling on what is now the popular mode of locomotion - namely, the byke ; and could you see us when we start out you would discover that we all wear bloomers. Now, I am the manager, proprietor and bill-poster of this organization, and my wife, Evangeline, is the treasurer. I wanted that office myself; but as she furnished the money to start us out, she insists on handling all the cash. She also has full charge of the programme; and if you will give us your kind attention we will now proceed....
